Compromise puts $52M to flood — for now

Rising costs. Damage to city-owned assets nearing $500 million, with not all expenses covered by province or insurance

ROBSON FLETCHER
robson.fletcher@metronews.ca

The $52 million in provincial "tax room" collected this year will be devoted to flood recovery and mitigation, city council decided on Monday, pledging to re-evaluate in November what to do with the funds next year and beyond.

Mayor Naheed Nenshi initially wanted to devote two years' worth of the money — $104 million in total — to repair and rebuild damaged city infrastructure but accepted an amendment from Ald. Shane Keating to limit it to one year for now.

"I think that's prudent," Nenshi said. "I think it makes sense to have a report with more information come to us as we determine how to spend in 2014."

That determination will happen during the city's regular budget deliberations in

Fighting words

"You bet this is an election issue."

Ald. Diane Colley-Urquhart, who voted against returning the $52 million to taxpayers.

November, likely making the matter a major election issue when Calgarians go to the polls in October.

"You bet this is an election issue," said Ald. Diane Colley-Urquhart, who earlier in the meeting put forward an unsuccessful motion to return the $52 million to taxpayers in 2014 and beyond by reducing the city's property-tax rate accordingly.

That motion was defeated by a 9-5 vote, with Colley-Urquhart, Ald. Shane Keating, Ald. Peter Demong, Ald. Ray Jones and Ald. Andre Chabot on the losing side.

Voting with the majority, Ald. Gian-Carlo Carra offered the strongest critique of the "give-it-back crowd," saying many Calgarians who support returning the tax room to taxpayers "do not understand where the money comes from."

"There is a significant chunk of the give-it-back crowd who just basically hate government, hate taxes, and their mission is to smallify and eradicate both," he said.

"I just do not align with that political line of thought at all. I don't agree with that sort of Tea Party vision of the world and I'm glad we live in Canada."

Jones, however, said he was voting to give the money back to fulfil the wishes of his constituents, noting that of the 25 people who contacted his office on Monday morning alone, all 25 said that's what council should do with the $52 million.

Most aldermen opposed returning the $52 million already collected in 2013 property taxes, due to the estimated $1-million cost and logistical challenges of doing so.

The tax room is the result of funds left over when the province allocated a smaller-than-expected share of Calgary's property taxes to education this year, while taking larger amounts of money from other municipalities' tax rolls that previously paid less.

Dog survives cop's bullet, but may still be put down

Pig the pit bull. 1,900 have signed a petition to save the dog, while a judge has yet to decide the fate of the pooch

jeremy.nolais@metronews.ca

Hundreds of people have signed an online petition urging that a pit bull be spared after surviving being shot in the face while lunging at a Calgary police officer.

Pig, a one-year-old pit bull, remains in custody of city animal and bylaw services two weeks after he was shot at point-blank range, operations manager Alvin Murray confirmed Monday.

The bullet travelled down through the canine's neck and is now lodged in his back, where it may remain permanently, Murray said.

But accounts of the care Pig is receiving vary greatly between city officials and owner Tara Sprayson.

"His condition is getting worse when it should be getting better," an emotional Sprayson said Monday, moments after leaving a Calgary courtroom, where she pleaded to have Pig transferred to his regular veterinarian.

Sprayson was charged with possession of marijuana in relation to a speeding-related traffic stop that led to Pig's shooting July 15.

She was travelling in a truck in the 1400 block of 52 Street N.E. with her husband and three dogs, including Pig, when they were stopped by a traffic officer, who believed she smelled the drug, police said earlier this month.

The service also claimed that officers on scene confirmed with the owners that the dogs would not attack before conducting a search of the vehicle, but Pig jumped out of an open window and bit one of them in the abdomen.

Sprayson, however, said Monday both her husband and she made it clear that while his two dogs were fine, Pig was young and in need of obedience training.

"He did nothing wrong," Sprayson said. "I don't know what to do anymore. Everybody's stopping us, nobody's fighting for this dog ... and he's suffering more and more."

The police officer was wearing a protective vest at the time of the attack and did not suffer any injuries.

Sprayson, meanwhile, has launched an online petition and Facebook page pleading that Pig be saved. As of Monday evening, more than 1,900 had signed the petition.

Murray, however, said "misinformation" is driving much of the criticism of the city's handling of Pig's situation. For starters, he said bylaw services has veterinarians at its shelter that have been routinely monitoring the pit bull.

"Pig is doing extremely well considering what's happened," he added.

Once Pig has recovered, bylaw officers will present evidence in court during a hearing and a judge will ultimately decide the dog's fate, which could include being put down, Murray said.

Calgarian. Police don't believe driver at fault in weekend collision

He may have only been 12 years old, but Neil Nahal loved to explore and had big aspirations.

"He always said he wanted to be mayor when he grew up," recalled younger sister Sanna Nahal with a smile. "He had this golden aura — he walked into a room and lit it up. Everyone just gravitated towards him, he had a pure heart."

"He was like an angel," added fellow sibling Shawna Nahal, who watched with admiration as her younger brother toured with family through London and Paris a few weeks ago, taking great interest in the European art and architecture he spotted along the way.

But now friends will be left to wonder what could have been, as Neil was struck and killed by a car while aboard his dirt bike Saturday just a block from his southwest Calgary home.

On Monday, family and friends alike deemed the corner where Neil was killed at 10A Street and 19th Street S.W. dangerous, adding it was likely neither he nor the 16-year-old driver of the vehicle that hit him saw each other until it was too late.

Friends and family said Neil's father Satpal Nahal always made a point of keeping a close watch over his son.

"We were, very, very close," Satpal said. "He is my only son and my best friend."

Sister Joti Nahal added, "We have the best dad in the world and we will always remember Neil as our angel."

Neil's three sisters and first cousin Sundie Sandhu spent an hour sharing numerous fond memories of him Monday afternoon. Sandhu, specifically, said the youngster always put a smile on her face.

Police have said they don't expect charges to be laid in relation to the collision.

Neil would have turned 13 in two weeks and begun Grade 8 at nearby Mount Royal Junior High School in September. Classmates, including Jaslynn Kanwal, set up a makeshift memorial on the fence bordering the school's playground over the weekend.

"Everyone's trying to hold up right now," Kanwal said. "He was just a free-spirited person — he was the most energetic person I know."

Outdoor rec areas to go smoke-free

Butt out. New rule starts Aug. 1

ROBSON FLETCHER
robson.fletcher@metronews.ca

Calgary has banned smoking in numerous outdoor areas and the new rules take effect Thursday.

New restrictions will kick in

Aug. 1 at public pools, skating rinks, playgrounds, skate parks and sports fields after city council voted Monday to amend the smoking bylaw to restrict the burning of tobacco within five metres of these recreational areas.

"It's reinforcing practices that are already being implemented," said Ald. Andre Chabot, who brought the bylaw changes forward. "It's kind of understood ... that you're not going to be smoking with a bunch of kids around."

Chabot, who started smoking as a child and recently quit after struggling with tobacco addiction for years, wanted to further codify that in the law, specifying that the restriction at sports fields should only apply "while children are present."

Ald. John Mar thought that would be too complicated to enforce, however, as it's not always easy to determine a person's age.

A majority of council agreed, and voted against adding that phrase to the bylaw.

"I don't want us to be in a position where we have to go around carding people on sports fields," Ald. Brian Pincott said, adding: "Adults should be protected from secondhand smoke too."

An alderman who recently quit smoking pushed for the ban. ROBSON FLETCHER/METRO

Truck crashes into Calgary Courts Centre

Officers say a suspect taken into custody after allegedly crashing a truck into the Calgary Courts Centre is known to police.

Around 3:30 a.m. Monday, Duty Insp. Guy Baker said a man drove a Ford F-150 pickup truck into the side of the courthouse, crashing through windows.

"Investigators are interviewing him now and we'll speak more about charges and motive at that point," he said Monday morning.

Baker said the driver didn't sustain any injuries and there appeared to be no impact to the structural integrity of the building.

"The damage is superficial, even though it looks horrific," said Baker.

A few hours after the collision, the vehicle was pulled out of the building and the courts centre was also oper-

Pope reaches out to gays

'Who am I to judge'?

In first news conference as Pope, Francis says gay clergymen should be forgiven and their sins forgotten

Pope Francis reached out to gay people, saying he won't judge priests for their sexual orientation, in a remarkably open and wide-ranging news conference Monday as he returned from his first foreign trip.

"If someone is gay and he searches for the Lord and has good will, who am I to judge?" Francis asked. "We shouldn't marginalize people for this. They must be integrated into society."

Francis' predecessor, Pope Benedict XVI, signed a document in 2005 that said men who had deep-rooted homosexual tendencies should not be priests. Francis was much more conciliatory in his first news conference as pope, saying gay clergymen should be forgiven and their sins forgotten.

The comments did not signal any change in church policy. Catholic teaching still holds that homosexual acts are "intrinsically disordered."

But they indicated a shift in tone under Francis' young papacy. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hundreds rage at police after an officer guns down teenager

Toronto streetcar slaying. Assurances from police chief do little to quell outrage

Hundreds of protesters shouted at police and called for justice Monday as they gathered at the spot where a young man was shot dead in an altercation with Toronto police on a streetcar.

The mother and sister of Sammy Yatim, 18, were among a crowd of protesters that stretched more than a block as marchers headed to the intersection where the teenager died on Saturday morning.

The death has sparked a flood of anger at police, who have suspended the officer involved. The crowd chanted Ontario's police watchdog is probing the incident, which was captured on video. Yatim was reportedly armed with a knife when he was shot.

Police Chief Bill Blair said the force will do all it can to answer the public's questions.

In addition to the Special Investigations Unit probe, he said he would be conducting a review to see if police procedures were followed. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Mountie found not guilty of lying in Taser death

An officer who was among the four Mounties at the Vancouver airport the night Robert Dziekanski died has been found not guilty of lying at a public inquiry into the Polish immigrant's death.

B.C. Supreme Court Justice Mark McEwan raised doubts about the Crown's theory that Const. Bill Bentley and the other officers colluded on their stories to homicide investigators and then lied at the inquiry. He noted civilian witnesses made the same sort of mistakes as the Mounties.

Bentley was the first to be tried for perjury for his testimony during the 2009 inquiry into what happened the night Dziekanski was hit with a Taser and died.

Video evidence, taken by a passenger, contradicted some of Bentley's note and statements.

Hudson's Bay Co. says it will open up to seven full-line Saks stores in Canada and about two dozen locations under a discount banner once it completes a $2.9-billion US friendly deal to acquire the U.S. luxury retailer.

Teflon. Scientists find consumer chemical in polar bears' brains

Polar bears in East Greenland have dangerous pollutants that also appear in Teflon in their brains, according to Danish researchers.

"Other pollutants dissipate into the environment, but these don't," says lead researcher Rune Dietz, professor of wildlife biology and toxicology at Aarhus University in Denmark.

"And they don't exist in polar bears' habitat either. A lot of the production of products with these substances now takes place in China. (Our findings) show how far these pollutants are able to travel."

The dangerous chemicals, known as PerFluoroAlkyl Substances (PFASs), are in everyday items like Teflon pans and textile coatings. When a lowly fish species eats the chemical, and is then eaten itself, the chemical moves up the food chain.

SEX ISN'T FOR POLITICOS TO DECIDE

Politicians aren't really known for being a particularly prudish bunch — Anthony Weiner, Bill Clinton, Eliot Spitzer and other public officials have had their share of high-profile sex scandals. And yet, a number of public figures made headlines last week for their sexually conservative policies.

American politician Ken Cuccinelli recently launched a web campaign aimed at resurrecting Virginia's Crimes Against Nature law, which would ban oral and anal sex between any two individuals. If passed, the law would make certain sex acts a felony with no consideration of context, effectively turning happily consenting, pleasure-seeking adults into sex offenders.

Across the pond, British Prime Minister David Cameron announced a new initiative to restrict access to online pornography throughout the country. This default porn filter will automatically block access to all sexually explicit websites and

SHE SAYS
Jessica Napier
metronews.ca

British citizens who are interested in viewing racy content will be forced into having a very awkward conversation with their service provider.

Both Cuccinelli and Cameron cite "protecting children" and "family values" as justification for their overreaching policies. "Family values" being one of those vague phrases that has no concrete meaning and is employed emphatically by right-wing politicians to attack everything from gay marriage to working mothers to Gossip Girl.

There's no doubt that this is tricky territory. Obviously intervention is necessary when it comes to things like child pornography, exploitation and sexual predators, but allowing government bodies to regulate what is or isn't sexually acceptable behaviour among the masses is a very slippery slope. I can't help but think of the overzealous minister in Footloose who is determined to outlaw rock music and dancing in his fictional Bible-thumping town.

Whether you agree with Cuccinelli's Crimes Against Nature law or Cameron's porn filter, you have to admit that both policies seem utterly impossible to enforce. This effort to BAN ALL THE NAKED THINGS is just an exhausting waste of time and public resources.

Sex is everywhere, online and in person, and it comes in seemingly limitless varieties. Teaching our children that sex is something that is immoral and should be forbidden is going to create confusion and unhealthy attitudes toward their own sexuality.

When it comes to sexual pleasure, government officials should have no right to come between two consenting adults — or between an individual and a computer screen, for that matter.

Rather than finding new ways to control private (and legal) sexual activities, we should focus on having frank discussions with our children about sex and the dangers of the web.

Dog parachutes from airplane

An elite air-force unit has a new weapon for fighting crime — a parachuting dog. A Belgian shepherd named Jany jumps out of the aircraft at more than 1,000 feet, while attached to the chest of an officer. The explosive detector dog makes dozens of jumps with the Colombian Group of Air Special Commands, specially set up to counter crime and terrorism.

The 90-man-strong group is tasked with combating terrorist and criminal activity at all of Colombia's airports. Each paratrooper carries their field equipment on their body for the jumps, which are fraught with danger as landing areas are often covered with anti-personnel blast mines.

Letters

Do we wait for someone else who is mentally ill to commit a crime? Or do we try and change our society that acts only after the crime has been committed. The government offers little help to the families that are fighting for their adult children's lives to keep them from harming others and themselves.

What a tragedy we are facing. How many times do we hear or read that someone has been murdered due to the mental state of another? As a society we have buried our heads in the sand because our government chooses to not deal with this issue. Time for change.

G.I. Joe: Retaliation

Director. John M. Chu

Stars. Dwayne Johnson,
Byung-hun Lee

● ● ● ● ●

G.I. Joe: Retaliation is a case of ADHD masquerading as a movie, hiding behind incoherent directing, writing and editing to minimize mayhem so as to secure a kid-friendly rating. It's like a giant explosion on a distant planet, observed but not felt. The stolid Dwayne "The Rock" Johnson joins grumpy Bruce Willis as the new top square-jaws of the changing cast, most of the original players having wisely opted for better gigs or early story exits. Based on an action figure and cartoon, G.I. Joe is reduced to an incomprehensible blur of throbbing testosterone tin men (and women), who rat-tat-tat their machine guns and shout inanities at each other. Even when something really big happens — say a major world city being blown up — the effect is like being hit with a clown's Nerf bat.

Woody Allen: The good, the bad and the ugly

Director's cut.

Filmmaker's body of work is nothing but prolific — here Metro ranks the best to the worst from 1969 to the present

MATT PRIGGE

Metro World News in New York

It's that time of year again — that is, when Woody Allen releases his annual film. The exact time of year fluctuates. (In the '90s, it was always in the fall, in time for Oscars. For the last few years he's been an improbable summer movie filmmaker.)

And whenever one of his new films is released, it's time to do that thing when you sum up his career, looking back over his rather daunting body of work — a film per year, with few exceptions, since 1969!

Jordan Hoffman, over at Film.com, has done a terrific film-by-film ranking of Woody's 43 1/3 films, though he also includes some that he only wrote and/or acted in, like What's New, Pussycat?, Play It Again, Sam, and The Front. (It feels weird calling him "Allen" — which is, in fact, his actual first name — and especially "Mr. Allen," a la The New York Times.)

It's a great round-up, one not afraid to mount cogent defences of such runs like Shadows and Fog and Another Woman.

Woody Allen on the set of his latest film, Blue Jasmine. CONTRIBUTEDList justifications

Love and Death, our number one, is not always cited as Woody Allen's best straight-up comedy, much less his best overall film. People tend to gravitate toward Sleeper, which is a touch more sophisticated and reined-in. But that's why we love this: this movie is insane. It's incredibly dense, with parodies of Dostoyevsky and Ingmar Bergman and Sergei Eisenstein flying madly about. (It's crazy this is one of his biggest money-makers.) However, it's his last full-on comedy before the hybrid of comedy and drama that is Annie Hall.

And here, without any neurotic self-deprecation, is ours. (Note: This is only theatricallyreleased films, not TV work, including the impossible to find Men of Crisis: The Harvey Wallinger Story — which, if anyone has a line on...)

Amanda Bynes' parents may be the last people she wants in control of her life and finances, as the troubled actress and her mom and dad have always had a tense relationship, at least according to Bynes' former pal Ana Rivera, a model, who says Bynes resents her "overprotective" parents for

Brad Pitt and Jennifer Aniston, both happily happily engaged to other people eight years after their divorce, MIGHT spot each other at this September's Toronto International Film Festival, and this MIGHT be a big deal, because they MIGHT hug hello, and they MIGHT talk, and they MIGHT wish each other well, and this will cause the universe to implode (if the folks at Us Weekly have anything to do with it, that is). A normal, civilized, post-divorce catch-up sesh surely is off the table for these two because in media, civil exes are boring. We want to catch these two either a) in a blow-out as big as a Real Housewives fight, or b) with their pants down in the bathroom at the Four Seasons Toronto. If they're anything like normal Americans, though, they'll just be courteous and chat for a few minutes. Either that or pull the ol' "Oh, my ex is here? Let me pretend to look very busy on my phone for the next hour and a half."

In the Summer issue of Best Health, on newsstands now, we feature an article by freelance writer Michelle Villett, who has rounded up the options available for taking the itch out of insect bites.

Tablets

Benadryl Allergy Caplets are an oral antihistamine containing diphenhydramine, which helps reduce the swelling of the skin from any insect bite or sting, and reduces the itching from mosquito bites and ant stings. But it can be sedating, so other good options are remedies containing loratadine (in Claritin Allergy), cetirizine (in Reactin) and desloratadine (in Alerius).

Topical antihistamines
These are less potent than oral remedies but can still soothe itchiness: After-Bite

Gel, Benadryl Itch Cream, Claritin Skin, Polysporin Itch Relief or Lanacane.

Natural remedies
Taking an oatmeal bath helps soothe the pain and itching. Aveeno Daily Moisturizing Bath is anti-inflammatory and helps skin retain moisture. Or you could try applying a paste of baking soda and water to bites or stings; the sodium bicarbonate can reduce itch.

There's also an exciting new option for prevention. Health Canada has just ap-

Watermelon introduces its savoury side in light salad

@rosereisman

Nothing beats a summer salad that combines watermelon, tomatoes and feta.

The balsamic glaze is sensational, and you avoid the calories and fat of oil-based dressings.

Follow directions exactly for dressing. If too thick, just add a little more balsamic vinegar.

Ingredients

Salad

- 4 cups (1 L) baby arugula or baby spinach
- 1 cup (250 ml) small red or yellow grape tomatoes
- 4 cups (1 L) cubed watermelon
- 1/3 cup diced reduced fat feta cheese (2 1/2 oz/75 g)

- 1/3 cup (80 ml) toasted chopped pistachios
- 1/4 cup (60 ml) chopped mint or parsley

Dressing

- 1 cup (250 ml) balsamic vinegar
- 1/4 cup (60 ml) maple syrup

1. To make the salad: Place arugula, tomatoes, watermelon, feta, pistachios and mint in a large serving bowl.

2. To make the dressing: In a small skillet, add the balsamic vinegar and maple syrup. Bring the mixture to a boil, and cook at a rapid boil for 8 to 10 minutes or just until the mixture bubbles on the entire surface and is slightly syrupy. Do not overcook, or the syrup will get too thick.

It isn't 'just water'

NUTRI-BITES
Theresa Albert
DHN, RNCPT
myfriendinfood.com

Oh, sure, it is 92 per cent water, but the other eight per cent of watermelon is a powerhouse. (And there is no such thing as "just" water anyway). Watermelon is a rare, excellent source of an important amino acid called citrulline, which is key in exercise muscle recovery and the elimination of ammonia.

The red flesh is delicious, but the white rind is even more concentrated in this nutrient. Don't throw it away! Trim the outer skin and save the white, less tasty portion to make a relish that is delicious with a cheese board, on baguette or burgers.

Watermelon Relish

- 2 cups (500 ml) watermelon rind. Remove the dark-green skin and cut the white part into 1/4-inch (0.6 cm) cubes
- 2 tsp salt (10 ml)

- 2 1/2 cups water (625 ml) and 3/4 cup (185 ml) water, divided
- 1/2 cup (125 ml) sugar
- 2 tbsps (25 ml) lemon zest, finely grated
- 2 tbsps (25 ml) lemon juice
- 1/2 tsp (2 1/2 ml) cinnamon
- 1/8 tsp cloves (0.5 ml)

Mix rind with salt and 2 1/2 cups (625 ml) water. Let stand covered at room temperature overnight. Drain and rinse well.

In saucepan, combine sugar with 3/4 cup (185 ml) water, the lemon zest and juice and cinnamon and cloves. Bring to boil over medium heat, add rind and cook gently for 40 mins. or until the rind is translucent and tender (do not boil hard as the mixture could caramelize). When done, remove from heat and cool. Keep refrigerated.

Canadians on the brink of debt disaster? Bank says the statistics may be flawed

Debunking the numbers is a messy business, but always worth it. ISTOCK IMAGES

YOUR MONEY
Alison Griffiths
money@metronews.ca

"Statistics are like a bikini. What they reveal is suggestive, but what they conceal is vital." So said the late Aaron Levenstein, American professor of business.

I'm sure that's what TD Bank analysts commented to each other when they re-analyzed the oft-reported statistics about Canadians' perilous indebtedness.

The numbers go like this: Canadians' debt-to-income ratio is 162, so we owe $162 for every $100 of after tax income. This is worrying because Americans ran up a debt-to-income ratio of 163 just before the financial crash.

The falling sky is nigh, say the financial prognosticators, especially in light of Canada's stratospheric housing market.

But TD maintains that the statistics are flawed. The Canadian figures include interest on non-mortgage debt and out of pocket health-care expenses, neither of which factor in to the American numbers.

When such costs are taken into account, our pre-crash neighbours had a debt-to-income ratio of 177 while we Canadians now stand at 156 per cent.

Certainly reason for concern, but we're not on the brink of Armageddon.

TD's reanalysis begs the question of why bogus, or at least flawed, statistics and conclusions can float around without contradiction, sometimes for decades.

These days surveys, reports and studies are hugely popular with all manner of companies and government agencies (TD, by the way, loves them.)

They're cheap advertising in a time of shrinking media outlets and budgets. For over-worked journalists, predigested research is very attractive.

Often the surveys produce an interesting slice of information about our lives and society. But some are just plain garbage.

A recent one about insurance bothered me and I discovered that most of the information had been lifted from an American study and then Canadianized poorly.

The problem with inaccurate or misleading surveys and reports is that they can create or solidify public opinion.

Take the level of Canadian indebtedness. Our debt level is too high, no question. But when statistics indicate that we're nearing a precipice, the public gets scared.

Worse, politicians leap into the fray and create lousy policies based on faulty assumptions.

I'd like to see a lot more debunking done, along the lines of TD Bank's recent report.

Getting touchy feely with robots

ELISABETH BRAW
Metro World News

Attention naysayers who predict that robots will never be like humans: the robots just made a huge leap in our direction. Researchers at the University of California, Berkeley, have invented robot skin — and it reacts when touched.

"With the interactive e-skin, we have demonstrated an elegant system on plastic that can be wrapped around different objects to enable a new form of human-machine interfacing," explained Ali Javey, an associate professor of electrical engineering and computer sciences at Berkeley who led the research team.

The e-skin is not really skin, of course: it's flexible plastic.

But its sensors react just like human skin. Lights flash when the skin is touched: softly in response to light touching, brightly in response to more pressure. The plastic sheets can be wrapped around robot limbs.

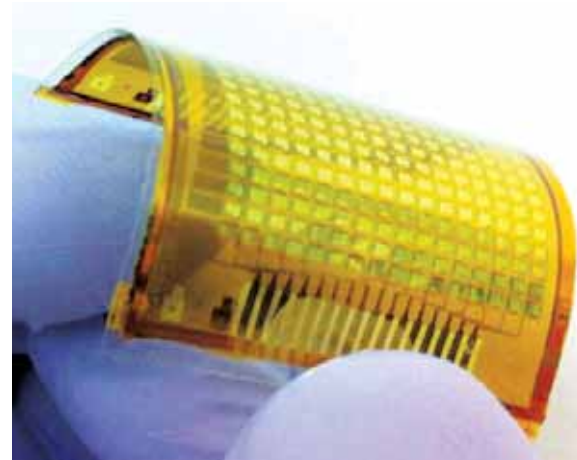

This will help the android creatures react to human beings. But the purpose of the skin is not to make robots more human. Instead, the researchers envisage it being used in wallpaper that functions like today's touchscreen devices.

"Unlike the stiff touchscreens on iPhones, computer monitors and ATMs, the e-skin is flexible and can be easily laminated on any surface," says the study's lead co-author, Chuan Wang, an assistant professor of electrical and computer engineering at Michigan State University.

"I could also imagine an e-skin bandage applied to an arm as a health monitor that continuously checks blood pressure and pulse rates," Wang says.

The results of the study, which was funded by the Pentagon's pioneering research arm, DARPA, were published in the scientific journal Nature Materials.

The e-skin isn't really skin. It's actually a flexible plastic with sensors.

World's fastest man accepts challenge to race for charity

Olympic sprint champion Usain Bolt has accepted a challenge from Olympic middle distance champion Mo Farah to race for charity, saying he would be prepared to meet over 600 metres.

Farah, who won gold at the 5,000 and 10,000 metres at the London Olympics last year was the star of the Games along with Jamaican sprinter Bolt, who won the 100 and 200 metres.

"That sounds fun," Bolt said. "It's going to be hard but it's charity so it's all about fun and enjoyment."

"I'm up for anything, for anything's possible."

Jets ink Bogosian to seven-year deal

The Winnipeg Jets have signed defenceman Zach Bogosian to a seven-year, $36-million US contract.

Bogosian was the Jets' final restricted free agent who needed a new deal. He'll count just more than $5.14 million against the salary cap. Last week the Jets signed right-winger Blake Wheeler to a six-year, $33.6-million contract. They also gave restricted free-agent centre Bryan Little a five-year, $23.5-million deal.

MLB. But fire sale not expected as GM Anthopoulos hopes to contend in 2014

After a busy off-season, the Toronto Blue Jays were expected to be contenders.

Instead they're well under .500, out of the American League East and AL wild-card races and grasping for positives amid a season that hasn't gone according to plan.

"When you're not winning games, it's not good," general manager Alex Anthopoulos said during a recent home-stand. "You're scratching your brain trying to come up with ways to get better."

One way to get better, for next year and beyond, involves selling before Wednesday afternoon's trade deadline. Anthopoulos recognizes the Blue Jays' place at the bottom of the standings, but with the hope of contending in 2014 there might not be many assets available to deal.

"Everyone's in trade

Setting the bar

The market for reliever trades has already been set.

- On Monday the Los Angeles Angels of Anaheim traded 37-year-old former Blue Jays lefty Scott Downs to the Atlanta Braves for minor-league right-hander Cory Rasmus.
- Also Monday, the Houston Astros traded closer Jose Veras to the Detroit Tigers for 19-year-old outfield prospect Danry Vasquez and a player to be named later.

'He's not Ricky': Argos turn to backup QB Collaros vs. Lions

CFL. Lions' pivot Lulay knows what Toronto counterpart is going through in Week 5

Travis Lulay knows what Zach Collaros is going through.

It wasn't that long ago that Lulay, now a Grey Cup champion and MVP with the B.C. Lions, was a rookie quarterback getting ready to make his first CFL start.

Collaros will get his shot in place of injured Toronto starter Ricky Ray when the Argonauts (2-2) host the Lions (3-1) in a rare Tuesday-night game in Toronto.

"He's excited, I can guarantee you that," Lulay said on Monday. "I can think back to my first start. I saw him doing an interview and you could see that excitement.

"Everyone's been there. We can relate to being in that situation."

The 24-year-old Collaros spent most of last season on the injured list but will get his first pro start after Ray suffered a knee injury in the Argos' 35-19 win over Winnipeg on July 19.

The extended layoff gave Collaros time to prepare to face the Lions and their No. 1-ranked defence.

"I'm excited to get going," Collaros said. "It's good to have three full practices under my belt and it's going to make the transition that much easier for me."

Argos coach Scott Milanovich said he expects Collaros, who has completed 7 of 10 passes for 112 yards in 2013, to do what has made him successful up to this point.

"Zach's a very emotional guy. He'll be jazzed up. I think he thrives on his emotion and I don't want to change that," Milanovich said. "He's not Ricky. He's a different style of player and he's a different personality and we're not going to try and make him Ricky."

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

Make the best use of every minute of your time today. What you do is important, but how you do it is even more so right now. Why? Because influential people are watching.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

Partnership problems must not be allowed to detract from the wonderful opportunities now coming your way. If there are any outstanding squabbles, you must deal with them now.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

People are going out of their way to be nice to you and you should go out of your way to return the favour. Fun is for everyone but especially for you.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

Why are you hesitating to start something you know you will enjoy — and which could make lots of money? Whatever the reason, you've got to get over it or you will look back later and regret that you were not more dynamic.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

There are major changes going on around you and the good news is every one of them can be used by you to further your interests. Whatever else you do today don't fear change — make it work for you.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

It seems you are focusing on things you fear rather than things you have to look forward to. That's silly and you know it. Everyone else thinks you're a star, so why don't you? Start acting like one today.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

Fate has a way of giving us what we need, though whether we want it at the time is another matter, of course. What happens today may shock you but it will also inspire you to aim higher.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

Today's Venus-Pluto link will bring back your passion for something you seem to have forgotten about for a while. This time you'll give it your undivided attention, and this time you'll see it through.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

These may be fun times but you should also be giving some thought to what changes you would like to see. They must, of course, be serious changes. Going through the motions won't be any good.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

You'll be moving around today, in pursuit of things you have set your heart on. Remember that not everyone shares your taste in possessions.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

The planets are urging you to put bad feelings behind you and patch up a relationship that still has a lot of mileage in it. You have come so far together, surely you can go all the way to the finish line.

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

You may not like having to say "no" to people who depend on you but if you don't it will be you who loses out. Haven't they been depending on you a bit too much? SALLY BROMPTON
